Qamea Unveils All New Wines and Champagnes

Posted: Tuesday 20 May, 2008

In January we retained the services of a leading wine consultancy firm in Australasia to undertake a comprehensive review of our wine and champagne offerings. This review included several wine tastings at various vineyards in New Zealand and Australia where both of the owners participated, and over the last several months (during our weekly wine tastings on the resort) we have presented our top selections to our guests just to make sure (and we were not always right!). What has resulted is an all new and vibrant wine and champagne list. While we still feature Australia and New Zealand wines, we now have a much more diverse selection, from more regions, and we believe our guests will be very pleased. Additionally, in order to increase quality and selection, without increasing price, we have cut out the middleman, and are for the first time importing all our wines and champagnes directly. Our first shipment of over 3,000 bottles arrive last week on the resort. Our wine cellar is now overflowing, and we are looking forward to sharing our new wines with you when you visit.
